Africa: banks lend to the rich, not the poor

Getting ahead in Africa is tough. Banks lend money only to the middle class and the wealthy. Poor Africans — meaning most Africans — stay poor. It's even harder if you're sick. Without savings to fall back on, many HIV-positive parents pull their kids out of school. They can't afford the fees and end up selling their few possessions to feed the family. When they die, their kids are left with nothing...

Gaz domestique : la pénurie persiste

Dans certains points de vente de la capitale, les livraisons sont de retour, bien trop insuffisantes pour satisfaire la demande croissante. "Je ne pouvais pas mieux tomber !" Dans un élan de joie, une jeune femme sort prestement sa bonbonne de la malle arrière d'un taxi. Sans se préoccuper du rang devant la grille du dépôt, elle se plante d'autorité aux premières loges, accompagnée par un flot d'injures...
